ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION:-

Environmental protection is the practice of protecting the natural environment by individuals, groups and governments. Its objectives are to conserve natural resources and the existing natural environment and, possible to repair damage and reverse trends,

Environmental protection is the practice of protecting the natural environment by individuals, groups and governments. Its objectives are to conserve natural resources and the existing natural environment and, where possible, to repair damage and reverse trends.

- Due to pressures of over consumption, population growth and technology.

* The Biophysical environment is being degraded, sometimes permanently.

* This has been recognized and governments have been placing restraints on activities that cause environmental degradation.

* Since the 1960s environmental movements have created more awareness of the multiple.

* Environmental problems there is disagreement on the extent of the environmental impact of human activity. So protection measures are occasionally debated.

* GOVERNMENT :-

- * Discussion concerning environmental protection often focuses on the role of government legislation and law enforcement,
- * However in this broadest sense,
- * Environmental protection may be seen to be the responsibility of all the people and not simply that of government,
- * Decisions that impact that environment will ideally involve a broad range of stakeholders including industry
- * Gradually, environmental decision-making processes are evolving to reflect this broad base of stakeholders and be coming more collaborative in many countries.
- * Many constitutions acknowledge Tanzania as having some of the poorest of any African country.
- * The concerns for the natural environment include damage to ecosystems and loss of habitat.

* VOLUNTARY ENVIRONMENTAL AGREEMENTS:-

IN Industrial countries voluntary Environmental agreements often provide a platform for companies to be recognized for moving beyond the minimum

→ regulatory standards and thus support the development Environment Improvement Trust has been working for Environmental and forest protection, since 1998,

→ In developing countries, such as Latin America. These agreements are more commonly used to remedy -

• Significant levels of non-compliance, with mandatory regulation,
